To My Faithful Friend

From the moment you were put into my arms and showered me with kisses, your tail wagging madly, I knew we would have such good times together. You were like my little shadow always by my side loving to help with daily chores. You would steal my cleaning cloths and dusters and run off with them and always demand a game of tug before giving them back!
You were such a lovely gentle dog and everyone you met fell in love with you and you with them.

Grandson Henry called you "Bunny" as he couldn't say Buddy and to see you playing your favourite game of chase in the field with your doggy friends you looked just like a little white fluffy rabbit jumping about in the long grass. You loved a cuddle each morning and you would stare at me with those beautiful big brown eyes, put your paws on my arm and I would lift you up and you would snuggle your face into my neck with your head on my shoulder.
How I so miss those lovely moments.

We only got to have one summer together but it was such fun. Long walks, playing ball in the field behind our house, socialising with other dogs, trips out in the sunshine, they were such happy times.
I am so sad it all ended so abruptly.

I wish your last day with us had been a happy one and to see you so poorly broke my heart. You are now at peace so when my time comes, meet me at the Rainbow Bridge and we will cross it together.

There may be other dogs in my life in the future but you can never be replaced and will always be my one and only true Buddy.
I love and miss you so much and will never forget you.

Thank you so much for making this such a wonderful time in my life.
