I spent time with this beautiful dog over the 4 days I stayed at the rescue centre, life was about to get a whole lot better for her. 2nd Jan 2009 I brought her home with me.
Choosing a name was important, a name which meant life was ideal – Zoe.
Rehabilitating Zoe was simply an amazing experience and new for us both.

Zoe was thought to be around 5 years old when she was rescued. She had multiple scar tissue which indicated multiple caesareans as noted by the vet she saw after being rescued.
She had a scar from being tied up which went around her back right leg, her spine was arched, her ears were scabby, her teeth were worn down and her muscle tone was poor.
Zoe was the inspiration for be puppy farm aware. She not only opened my eyes up to the extent of the puppy farming industry but she educated the general public.
Zoe had become quite a pro at being filmed. She featured on Sky, Crufts on Channel 4, the BBC politics show, and the kennel club.

She attended many events throughout the year including Pup Aid winning best rescue and then best in show in 2013.
Zoe's story featured in dogs today magazine and she fuelled important meetings to discuss animal welfare and puppy farming.

Zoe had a life, a world apart from her previous one.
We had 7 wonderful years together.
