My sweet, sweet baby boy, one of the hardest things I have ever had to do, was watch you peacefully cross the rainbow bridge, my heart is broken,
I know if you were here you would be snuggled right into me giving me sweet kisses to make me feel better, walking home from work for lunch/evening's and finding you're not pawing at the door waiting for me or seeing you jump off your favourite spot on the back of the chair watching the world go by, & waking up to my alarm after a broken nights sleep instead of you pawing at me for your breakfast and then finding myself looking for you has shattered my heart into a thousand pieces, my home feels empty without you baby boy, I don't know how am going to get through each day without with you, they say it will get better with time but my sweet baby boy I miss you terribly & so does daddy.

You will always be in mamas heart
I love you always,
until we meet again run free baby boy.
